What is Prisoner Re-entry

California Human Development's Prisoner Re-entry program delivers transitional services to individuals returning to their communities from jail or prison. The program is intended to reduce recidivism by providing support, guidance and opportunity to newly released inmates who are willing to make positive changes in their lives.

The program is reviewed quarterly by an advisory council made up of Sonoma County community service advocates, court and jail personnel.

Each participant will receive no less than six months and up to one year of supportive services.

This project is funded in part by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 in cooperation with the California Department of Community Services

Prisoner Re-entry Services

- In custody assessment
- Individual re-entry planning
- Individual weekly case management
- Substance abuse treatment (out-patient only)
- Group, individual and family counseling
- Ancillary service coordination: housing, employment, education, medical, dental and mental health
- Relapse prevention
- Discharge and transition planning
- On-site drug testing
- Transport from jail to clean and sober living environment if needed

Eligibility

Newly released adult inmates or in lieu of standard custody sentencing.

Participation will be determined by application screening and initial caseworker assessment. Participants must have a willingness to succeed.

An application may be obtained at the Main Adult Detention Facility or the North County Adult Detention Facility.

Credentials

CHD is a California State Certified treatment facility. CHD's counselors are highly qualified addiction specialists and meet compliance standards set by a nationally accredited certifying organization.
